

CREATE A RESTORE POINT TO AVOID A CORRUPTED INSTALLATION

Before you install a third-party (non-Microsoft) application or driver on your computer, it is a good idea to create a restore point. Then if your operating system becomes corrupted because of the installation, you can return to the time when things were working more smoothly.

1. Go to Settings (Windows + I).
2. Click on Systems.
3. Click on About.
4. Click on Systems Info (it appears along the right side of the window).
5. Click on System Protection (it appears along the left side of the next window.)
6. Click on the Create button (it appears near the lower right corner of the next window) and follow the step-by-step instructions.
