

Disable the Task View: another way to reduce the clutter on the Taskbar.

There is a Task View button that provides an overview of all your open windows and virtual desktop features. When it is enabled, the Task View button will always appear to the immediate right of the search bar/icon. This feature is enabled by default. If you'd like to disable it in an effort to reduce the clutter on the Taskbar:

1. Right-click on a blank area of the taskbar.
2. Deselect the Show Task View button.
