

Have Any of Your Accounts Been Breached?

This site came about after what at the time, was the largest ever single breach of customer accounts — Adobe. The Microsoft professional who did the Adobe post-breach analysis of user credentials kept finding the same accounts exposed over and over again, often with the same passwords. This inaction by not changing passwords put the victims at further risk of their other accounts being compromised.

<https://haveibeenpwned.com>