

UNLOCKER FOR WHEN A PROGRAM REFUSED TO UNINSTALL

What if Windows refuses to uninstall some software and tosses up the dreaded ‘Program is in use’ message? Unlocker (this is a hyperlink) can neutralize pesky active processes that leave programs open and unable to be removed. Simply right-click the software you want to uninstall, select Unlocker from the context menu, and then unlock or kill all the processes that are preventing the uninstall.

Just be careful when installing Unlocker. It tries to install lots of bloatware on your PC. Don’t click on “next” until you have read the related window carefully. If there is a “decline” button, you are not declining to download the program. You are just declining the offer to install the bloatware!
